

took the testimony of the American producers, and that he said he proposed to continue to do so.

Referring to a statement recently made by Mr. Bacon, Mr. Lodge said that what made Senators on the Republican side laugh when the revenue aspect of duties was discussed by some members of the minority was "the regularity with which protective duties become revenue duties when they cross the borders of certain States."

"Nobody ever needed me," he said, "to revise the tariff downward or to revise it upward. But we are pledged to a revision, and I suppose we are here to revise it in view of the interests of the whole country. If it is wise to reduce rates, then reduce them; if it is wise to give greater protection, we should do that, and if it is wise to keep them as they are, then that should be done. That has been the attitude of the Committee on Finance and without professing infallibility, we have adopted that line of action."

Shortly after 4 o'clock Senator Aldrich, saying it was evident that a vote on the tariff schedule could not be taken to-night, suggested that the Senate adjourn. Before that action was taken Mr. Bacon, in reply to a statement made by Mr. Lodge, referred to the great cotton-raising industry of the South, which, he said, could not share the benefits of the protective tariff. He said that the tariff put upon cotton was as useless as would be a tariff on cotton. The section which the Senator from Massachusetts pointed out by the operation of that law in which the South had not shared.

In passionate language Mr. Bacon recounted the events connected with the Civil War and denounced the suggestion that the South had in any way benefited by a system of taxation which "one section is despoiled for the benefit of another," or that its failure to provide its necessities during the war was the result of not having such a system. In fervid language Mr. Bacon spoke against the protective tariff, and against the placing of an additional taxation upon the people.

Circuit Court of Appeals.
The United States Circuit Court of Appeals received yesterday morning, with Circuit Judge Pritchard and District Judges Waddill, Keller and McDowell in attendance.

A petition for an appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit to Supreme Court of the United States was presented in the following case:

No. 145. G. R. Westfield et al., appellants, vs. North Carolina Mining Company, appellee; appeal from the Circuit Court at Asheville. Petition of the North Carolina Mining Company for an appeal from this court to the Supreme Court of the United States presented by J. J. Hooker, of Dillsboro, N. C., and argued by Charles A. Moore, of Asheville, for the appellee. The court took the petition under consideration.

Court adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

"Berry's for Clothes" "Berry's for Clothes" ALL PLEAD FOR SOME GOOD JOBS

The puzzle is going to be NOT in finding one style that suits you, but in deciding which one suits you best, because our assortment of fabrics, designs and models this spring is bewildering in quantity and attractiveness.

Fancy Sack Suits, $12.80 to $38.
Blue Serge Suits, $15 to $25.

The Berry Shoe had a reason for becoming famous.

There's more style, more service, better fit and less profit in it than any shoe on the market to-day at $3.80, $4, or $5.00.

Why should there be, you say?

Because by making them that way we continue to sell more of them.

DECLARES HALF IS LEFT UNTOLD

"If I Go to the Penitentiary Others Will Soon Follow Me."

MERCER, PA., May 8.—Manifesting the same stoical indifference to her fate which characterized her throughout her trial for the abduction of "Billy" Whittia, Mrs. James Boyle sat immovable as the jury returned a verdict of guilty on the second count of the indictment against her to-day.

The court-room was crowded almost to suffocation when the jury filed in at 1:30 and the foreman announced they had agreed.

Quietly, as though she was preparing to go out for a walk, Mrs. Boyle drew on her gloves, arose from her chair and went with the sheriff back to her cell.

Judge Miller, Mrs. Boyle's attorney, has announced that he will make a motion on Monday for a new trial.

"Life in the penitentiary would kill me in a week or ten days, and rather than submit to this I would take the 'Dutch route,'" said Mrs. Boyle to-day.

"Like her husband, she is a woman more than a girl, and she has brought out in the trial of herself or her husband regarding the kidnapping of 'Billy' Whittia.

"If Jimmie and I are sent to the penitentiary," said Mrs. Boyle, "I will not go alone. Others will go with us or join us soon there. Half the truth has not yet been told in this case. One other man who planned the whole affair has not been arrested."

"I am willing to suffer for any crime I may have committed, but there is no evidence that I have been mixed up in this case, and rather than suffer injustice from this court I will quit this court and take justice from my Maker."

The address of Judge Miller, counsel for Mrs. Boyle, to the jury, was begun at 9:30 o'clock to-day. He presented to the court eight points of law which he asked to have submitted to the jury. In substance they were to the effect that a crime can only be punished in the jurisdiction where it is committed and that in the pending case there has been no testimony to show that Mrs. Boyle had committed any overt act in Mercer county in connection with the abduction of the Whittia boy. Instructions to the jury to bring in a verdict of not-guilty were asked.

Powerful Influence.
He intimated that powerful influences were being brought to bear to convict the woman—and there were veiled references to the suppression of the effort of the Boyles to bring into the case the name of a third party.

He said: "I have been associated in this court in various capacities since 1872, and never before did I see so much influence and so much wealth used to corrupt and pervert the minds of a jury as in this case."

Judge Miller's address occupied about an hour and he was immediately followed by Quincey Adams Gordon, for the prosecution.

Two More Are Held.

BOSTON, MASS., May 8.—After a hearing that has continued for some days, United States Commissioner Hayes this afternoon held Ernest H. Martin, of Dorchester, for the Federal grand jury on the complaint of sending a letter to James P. Whittia, of Sharon, Pa., demanding $10,000 as a means of saving his son, Willie Whittia, from harm. Martin was allowed to go on his personal recognizance in $100.

John W. Wright, who was arrested on the same charge with Martin, was held to a witness and committed to the Charles Street Jail, where he is paid $1 a day until the case is settled. At the hearing to-day, Wright took the witness stand in his own behalf. He admitted that he has no home, and said that he was not conscious of his goings on the day of his arrest.

Keep the Balance Up.
It had been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. No body can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite or to feel tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness or debility. The system needs to be brought back to its normal state, and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same value as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. The early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla for appetite, strength and endurance.

FOR TOURISTS' COMFORT

Russian Government Will Allow Them to Sleep in Cars.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—The government railways department has granted a peculiar application made by a number of foreign business firms. The latter explained that many representatives of manufacturing houses, especially Americans, wished to visit the leading towns of the interior, out were discouraged by the notorious discomfort of the provincial hotels. They therefore asked to be allowed to sleep in the cars, which will be halted at the towns included in the tour.

The czar's coming cruise will witness the political use of wireless telegraphy on a more systematic scale than has ever before been attempted. He will be absent from Russia for six weeks, and will receive daily dispatches from the czar's headquarters in Europe, which will be made on his own palace. The telefunks say they will be used. A Russian transmitting ship will be at Havre to forward dispatches when the czar is in Western European waters. A special code has been prepared. Political secretaries will be attached to the chancery of the traveling court. The Empress and her five children will accompany the czar. The czar's yacht, the Imperator, will include the Mediterranean, and the Kings of Italy, Spain and Portugal will be visited.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LEXINGTON, Ky., May 8.—Two men who went to-day to Shelby county from Louisville to inspect the site of the proposed $100,000 Leland Institute for negroes received a bundle of switches and a hemp rope, together with a warning.

There has been much objection from people in that section to having the negro school located there, although it has been stipulated that students will be kept in the school and that they will have their own railroad station and post-office.

DIPLOMAT IN THE AIR

Secretary of the American Embassy in London Goes Ballooning.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
PITTSFIELD, MASS., May 8.—William R. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, of New York, and his brother, Sheldon Whitehouse, a secretary of the American embassy in London, ascended in the balloon yesterday to-day.

Starting at two minutes to 10, the aeronauts were directed southwest toward Richmond. William Van Steel was pilot. This was the first aerial trip of Sheldon Whitehouse, but his brother's fourteenth.

The atmosphere was so calm that the balloon came down in three hours without accident, some four miles from the start.

ALL PLEAD FOR SOME GOOD JOBS

Candidates Explain to Jefferson Ward Voters Why They Should Be Elected.

Pleading for a job at the hands of the city and the Democratic party, which, one might have been led to believe from some of the speeches, owed a job to every man who had ever cast a vote, seven candidates for Sheriff and two for High Constable addressed the Jefferson Ward Mann Club at its meeting in Strang's Hall last night. The speeches were by no means flowery; there was no Demosthenes in the crowd, no descendant of John Randolph or Patrick Henry. The speakers "just up and asked for a job" in the plainest terms they could command, and it is up to the Jefferson Ward voters to decide who is in most need of a position carrying some small pecuniary reward. All of the candidates said that they felt qualified to hold the position each was seeking, and one said he had "a peculiar fitness" for the job. One of those inside rather remaining inside looking out, and those outside looking in preferring to do vice versa.

It was not suggested by any of the candidates that public service demanded a man of the highest qualifications, except that each felt qualified to carry on the duties, or that public office is rather to be bestowed on men peculiarly fitted for it. It was a case of the man after the job, not the job after the man.

J. B. Wood presided as chairman. Herbert Mercer, deputy sheriff, was the first to bespeak his candidacy for the sheriffship. He was followed by Collier Gibson, who said that he had been building chimneys and walls for many years, and thought he could climb up into the City Hall. George Bull was represented by Samuel J. Parrish, who said that his friend had many noble qualities and deserved the job. J. H. Bradley said he had been working in a shop for thirty-five years, and wanted to get out of it. He wanted to be sheriff, and put up to the people as to whether he deserved the office. John H. Redwood asked for every vote in sight, and John F. Don Lee said he was suitably fitted for the place. Adam Disant spoke of his services in the City Council, when every poor man got a gutter. Now he wanted a job, and thought he deserved it.

William H. Wyatt, Jr., addressed the audience on behalf of his candidacy. He said he had been a good employer and thought his employers ought to hire him again. E. C. Garrison said he had had the office before, and thought he ought to have it again. He said he was a good employer and thought his employers ought to hire him again. E. C. Garrison said he had had the office before, and thought he ought to have it again.

Just before the meeting closed Lee Todd asked to be allowed to address the voters in support of his candidacy for City Sergeant.

HACKETT A BANKRUPT

Matinee Told Says He Owes $125,457, and He Has Only $333.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW YORK, May 8.—James K. Hackett, through his attorney, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy to-day. Hackett says that he owes $125,457, and that he has only $333 with which to pay these debts. He says that his heaviest creditor is Mary Manning, Hackett's wife, who claims she has loaned him $50,000, but he doesn't think it is as much as that.

About a year ago Hackett had a disagreement with his wife, and it became very bitter. An application for divorce by her followed.

Dan Hanna, of Cleveland, O., son of the late Senator Hanna, is set down as a $10,000 creditor for money loaned. William Morris and David N. Taylor are secured creditors. Among the others whom Hackett says he owes money are: Victor Mapes, $371.17; Elizabeth Marbury, $241.97; Dan Frohman, $77.84; James Caffrey, $5,000; Van Houten, $1,000; New York Edison Company, $1,329.42; New York Edison Company, $1,312.13; E. R. Thomas, $2,011.53; Wilmington Trust Company, $1,409; A. L. and S. F. Jacobs, $5,449.

If the application passes the courts Mr. Hackett cannot be forced to pay his wife either alimony or the money she says he owes her.

Mrs. Harriet French.

Mrs. Harriet French, wife of Thomas French, died at her home, 1029 West Main Street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. She leaves two daughters—Mrs. W. B. Hamilton and Miss Matilda French, who is married to Mr. Marston, and a niece, Mrs. L. W. Marshall.

Mrs. French was eighty-two years of age, had been quite feeble. Last Easter Monday one year ago she met with a slight tripping over a rug in her dining-room, which fractured her hip. Her wonderful vitality served her well in this that she recovered sufficiently to walk to her home, taken to Mt. Elliott Springs, where she improved greatly, until other troubles appeared. She was a member of the Methodist Church, the best part of her long life.

Mrs. McNamee's Funeral.
The funeral of Mrs. Robert L. McNamee, who died at the Memorial Hospital Thursday morning, took place from her late residence, 804 East Leigh Street, yesterday morning, the funeral being conducted by Rev. Gilby C. Kelly, D. D., of the Broad Street Methodist Church, of which Mrs. McNamee had long been a member. The interment was made in the family section in Hollywood, and following were the pallbearers: G. Barlow, Sidney J. Porter, C. Wren, Dr. A. W. Graves, Robert Stoltz, W. C. Tyree.

DEATHS

BABER.—Died, at his residence, 30 North Lombard Street, April 23, 1909. Mr. JOHN M. BABER. The life of this Christian man touches all hearts and friends who loved him. Death took him a while ago. After a lingering illness of six months, nursed and cared for tenderly by a loving and devoted wife, he fell peacefully to sleep. He leaves a wife, who was formerly Miss Nannie Wickham Tyler, of this city, and aged father and one sister, of Waynesboro, Va.

"Gone, but not forgotten." He was taken to his old home in Waynesboro for burial.

CURRIE.—Died, Saturday, May 8, 1909, at 2:30 P. M., GEORGE L. CURRIE, in his seventy-second year. He was born in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, December 1, 1837.
